

Thank you. Thank you very much. How're we doing? Are you enjoying your trip down memory lane? Next, we're going to drop back a few years to 1937 with a show tune from "Babes In Arms" written by Rodgers and Hart. In the original play, a character named Billie Smith sings the song to her boyfriend, Valentine "Val" LaMar. Billie pokes fun at some of Valentine's characteristics, but she finally admits that he makes her smile and that she doesn't want him to change.

Here is "My Funny Valentine."
