

Our next song debuted on Billboard's Hot 100 on August 7, 1961, and remained for twelve weeks, peaking at #7. It was written by Barry Mann and Gerry Goffin. It's a doo-wap song about how doo-wap songs made the song writer's girl fall in love with him. Wow. If were only that easy!

I'll bet you dollars to doughnuts you haven't heard this one for a long, long, time. Get it? – Dough-NUTS?

Here we go with "Who Put the Bomp".
