

Thank you.

We're going to move way forward in time now, to the year 1966, when a new musical by Jerry Herman opened on Broadway based on a novel entitled "Auntie Mame." It was recorded by a number of artists, including Louie Armstrong and Bobby Darin, and the Broadway musical featured such stars as Ginger Rogers, Angela Lansbury, and Lucille Ball.

Here's the song about a lady who brought joy to many people -
"Mame."
