

Thank you. Isn't that a great song?

Now, we'll pick up the tempo with a song written back in 1948 and first performed by Hank Williams. The song was written about Williams' religious convictions despite his alcoholic vices. Since that time, it was recorded by artists such as Jerry Lee Lewis, Roy Acuff, Willie Nelson, Johnny Cash, and many others.

Here we go with a song about an eye-opening experience - "I Saw The Light."