

Thank you.

We'll slow things up with our next selection, written in 1939 and made famous by the great Tommy Dorsey orchestra. You remember Tommy, don't you? What instrument did he play? Right, the trombone. The best known version of the song was the one recorded by Frank Sinatra when he was singing with Tommy and his orchestra. It held the #1 spot on the charts for 12 weeks.

Here's our version of "I'll Never Smile Again."
