

Thank you. Thank you very much.

We'll pick up the tempo a bit with this next song, written in 1920, and named after the five-year-old daughter of Eddie Cantor. Cantor's recording stayed at the top of the charts for five weeks. It has since become a jazz standard, recorded by such artists as Bing Crosby, Duke Ellington, Louis Armstrong, Ray Charles, and a whole host of others.

So, just kick back and enjoy of version of his great classic from the Roaring Twenties - "Margie."
