

Thank you. Thank you very much.

We'll pick up this tempo with a song written way back in 1929. The most notable recording was by Maurice Chevalier. It's the story of an act of nature that speaks the name of a particular lady very softly.

I'll do my best to emulate Maurice as I tell you that "Every Little Breeze Seems To Whisper Louise."