

Thank you.

This next song is from one of the all-time great musicals composed by the team of Rodgers and Hammerstein - "South Pacific."

In the first act of the musical, Nellie Forbusch, the Army nurse stationed on the South Pacific Island during World War II, tells Emile, the middle-aged French plantation owner with whom she has fallen in love, that she is sure that everything will turn out alright with respect to the war's outcome. And the reason she knows this is because she's a "Cockeyed Optimist."

We'll let our own Nellie Forbusch, _____, sing this cheery song for you now. Here's our version of "A Cockeyed Optimist."
