

Thank you.

Well, we're nearly at the end of our time together. For our next to last song in this Mardi Gras celebration, we'll play a song with a Latin beat that was written back in 1940 by a young Mexican girl named Consuelo Valazquez at the age of 15. The song title is translated as "Kiss Me Again and Again" but Consuelo said that she wrote the song before she had ever been kissed.

Here is "Besame Mucho."