

Thank you very much.

Our next selection was composed in about 1850 and celebrates the English custom of “wassailing” or singing carols from door to door wishing good health to everyone. Originally, bands of beggars and orphans used to dance their way through the streets of England at Christmastime, singing carols in exchange for food, drink, and the warmth of a fire.

The song that we’ll play is “Here We Come A Wassailing.” We’ve decided to play it in a rock-and-roll rhythm.

Enjoy!
