

Thank you.

One common business place that would be found in every town in the old west was commonly referred to as the “watering hole.” It was a place where people gathered for entertainment and refreshment - the town tavern.

Our next song is a great polka about this notable establishment. It’s title is “There Is A Tavern In The Town.” So, hop up and dance the polka with us.