

Thank you very much.

Let's pick up the tempo with this next carol. It's a traditional and popular carol from England, written back in the 17th century. Its title is a bit confusing, since it talks about ships sailing in to Bethlehem. But if you know your geography, the only body of water near to Bethlehem is the Dead Sea about 20 miles away. Most scholars think that the word "ships" refer to the camels of the Magi, since camels are frequently referred to as "ships of the desert."

Whatever the meaning, we hope you enjoy of version of this lively carol. Here's _____ to tell us "I Saw Three Ships Come Sailing In."
